

Abe Fellowship 2006 Announced

Started in 1991, the Abe Fellowship Program has been supporting international multidisciplinary research on topic of pressing global concern with the goal of nurturing a community of researchers interested in playing an active role in a bilateral and a global research network centered on these long-range issues. The Japan Foundation Center for Global Partnership conducts the program in cooperation with the Social Sciences Research Council and the American Council of Learned Societies in the United States.

List of 2006 Fellows

- | | |
|---|--|
| Daniel Aldrich, Tulane University, "The Role of Civil Society in Post-Disaster Recovery" | A Comparative Study of Gender Policy Debates in Japan and the U.S.A." |
| Eric Brown, University of Missouri - Columbia, "Race, Caste, and Minority Middle Class Formation: The Cases of African Americans and Japanese Buraku People" | Tadahiro Katsuta, University of Tokyo, "Can We Simultaneously Achieve Nuclear Nonproliferation and Civilian-Use Expansion?: Issues of Recent Multilateral Nuclear Fuel of U.S. and Japan and Proposal of a New Approach" |
| Yoko Crume, North Carolina A&T State University, "Comparative Study of Senior Housing with Long-Term Care Options for Japanese and American Middle Class" | Takeshi Matsui, Hitotsubashi University, "Interpenetration Process of Japanese and American Consumer Culture: A Comparative Study on Institutionalization of Foreign Consumer Culture" |
| Pepper Culpepper, Harvard University, "Patient No More? Change and Informal Institutions in Coordinated Economies" | Narushige Michishita, National Institute for Defense Studies, "Assessing the Policy Effectiveness: North Korea's Brinkmanship Diplomacy and Regional Responses" |
| Christina Davis, Princeton University, "Adjudication and the Politics of Opening Markets: Trade Strategies of Japan and the United States" | Hyunjoon Park, University of Pennsylvania, "Single-Parenthood and Children's Education in Japan, South Korea and the United States" |
| Keiko Ito, Senshu University, "Cross-Border M&As in the Service Sector: A Comparative Study of Japan and the United States" | Franziska Seraphim, Boston College, "The Politics of Social Integration in Post-Occupation Japan and Germany" |
| Toshiya Jitsuzumi, Kyushu University, "Broadband Infrastructure, Competition, and Network Neutrality: A Comparative Analysis of Broadband Development Policies" | Sheila Smith, East-West Center "China's Place in Japan's Foreign Policy Debate: Ideas, Agents and Issues in Remaking 'Postwar' Japan" |
| Ayako Kano, University of Pennsylvania, "Gender Equal, Gender Free, and the Backlash:" | |

Contact: The Japan Foundation Center for Global Partnership

Tel. 03-5562-3542

Fax +81-3-5562-3504